About Cheryl Sangster

Cheryl is a farm girl from the Canadian prairies where she developed a keen interest in wildlife and biology. This led her to complete a BSc in Marine Biology at Dalhousie University, followed by a DVM at the Western College of Veterinary Medicine. Her education culminated in an MVSc in pathology with a wildlife health option, using the Canadian Wildlife Health Centre as a training ground.

Following completion of ACVP board certification, Cheryl took up a position as Diagnostic Veterinary Pathologist at Taronga Zoo. After 7 years she left the zoo to pursue a lifestyle change, splitting her time between Scotland and Australia. She has continued to work in the field of pathology, taking up short-term positions at the Universities of Glasgow and Sydney.

Cheryl has presented at the International and Australasian WDA conferences, American College of Veterinary Pathologists and American Association of Zoo Veterinarians. She has been an invited speaker at the CL Davis Pathology Foundation “Wildlife Pathology Short Course” in 2008 and 2012 and was the keynote speaker at a Wildlife Pathology Workshop hosted by Khao Keow Open Zoo in Thailand in 2012. She has authored over 20 peer-reviewed journal articles, primarily in the field of wildlife pathology.
